UPDATED 6-12-2025

Judicial Commissioner Rules and Procedures

1. Time Off Requests

Everyone needs to let the Supervisor know what days off they'll need for the upcoming month by the 20th of the previous month.

Requests after the 20th may not be approved.

Emergencies will always be considered on a case-by-case basis.

2. Concerns, Complaints, and Issues

Any concerns or complaints should be brought directly to Judicial Commissioner Supervisor Brittany Rogers.

The Supervisor will review the issue and, if needed, bring it to the Public Safety Committee for further discussion.

3. Supervisor Role

The Supervisor has the authority to give verbal warnings or written write-ups for insubordination or failure to follow these Rules and Procedures.

Any write-ups will be forwarded to the Public Safety Committee for approval.

4. Coverage and Call-Ins

We will no longer be covering single call-ins.

If an unusual situation comes up, only the Supervisor can step in to cover.

Otherwise, if you need time off or can't work your shift, you must give your entire day to another Commissioner so that person is paid for the full shift.

Partial shift coverage will not be allowed.

5. Dress Code / Professional Appearance

Even though we are on-call, we still represent the court and need to maintain a professional appearance:

Clothing should be clean, neat, and appropriate when reporting in.

Business casual is fine (slacks, khakis, polos, blouses, simple dresses, etc.).

Professional footwear is expected (closed-toe shoes preferred).

Basically: dress in a way that reflects professionalism and respect for the position, while keeping comfort in mind for on-call work.

6. Acknowledgment

All Judicial Commissioners are expected to read, understand, and follow these Rules and Procedures. Failure to follow them may result in disciplinary action.

To the Budget Committee,

I am asking the committee to consider why the Judicial Commissioners need our own office space. Right now, we do not have a dedicated office, and that creates several problems for both the public and for us in carrying out our responsibilities.

One of the biggest concerns is that people coming in for Orders of Protection are not always comfortable when law enforcement is present. In fact, we have had situations where individuals were so uneasy that they walked out without completing the process. These are often people in crisis, and if they don't feel safe and supported, they may not follow through with the protections they need. Having our own office would provide a neutral, safe environment where the public feels comfortable seeking help.

Another issue is confidentiality. We regularly deal with sensitive matters such as warrants, bonds, and legal documents. Without our own space, it's difficult to guarantee the level of privacy and professionalism the position requires.

Finally, an office would give us a consistent, accessible location for law enforcement and the public to reach us without confusion or delay. It would also provide secure storage for important records and paperwork.

Providing Judicial Commissioners with their own office is not just about convenience. It's about protecting victims, ensuring privacy, and improving the efficiency of our justice system.

Thank you for considering this request.

Sincerely,
Brittany Rogers
Judicial Commissioner Supervisor

Upgrade your technology

Is it time to replace your monitor/defibrillator?

Keeping your lifesaving equipment current with the latest technology is one of the most important steps you can take to care for your community. Follow these replacement cycle recommendations to ensure your teams are armed with the most effective tools available.

Age and use

From the field to the hospital, daily device use can cause natural wear and tear over time.

Defibrillator/monitors have a five-year life expectancy according to the American Hospital Association's 2018 Estimated Useful Lives of Depreciable Hospital Assets.

Clinical standards

Biphasic defibrillation

Styker's modern biphasic waveform is more effective and safer than older monophasic waveforms.^{1,2}

Higher conversion rates

5-11% of cardiac arrest patients are difficult to defibrillate and will need more defibrillation energy to convert. Escalating energy up to 360 joules can improve conversion rates when lower energy shocks fail.²

STEMI

Accurate STEMI identification allows direct transport to the nearest PCI center and quick cath lab activation before the patient arrives. The pre-hospital 12-lead ECG is associated with faster reperfusion times and suggests a trend toward lower risk of mortality.³

An American Heart Association (AHA) consensus statement endorses the acquisition of pre-hospital 12-lead ECGs as well as their integration into STEMI systems of care.⁴

Pacing

Transcutaneous pacing is a recommended treatment for patients who have bradycardia unresponsive to drug therapy or are severely symptomatic bradycardia.⁵

Oximetry: SpO₂

The increased use of pulse oximetry has earned the distinction of the "fifth vital sign" after blood pressure, heart rate, respiratory rate and temperature.

Capnography: EtCO₂

Capnography is a Class I recommendation for the use of continuous quantitative waveforms to confirm and monitor ET placement. Waveform capnography is useful to monitor and optimize CPR quality and detect ROSC during resuscitation.⁶ (Class IIb recommendation).

0% unrecognized misplaced intubations using EtCO₂ monitoring.⁷

23% unrecognized misplaced intubations without EtCO₂ monitoring.⁷
